Hard Working Teacher

Every person in this world has a story or an memorable experience to be shared with everyone. If it is not there, then there is no completeness in life.

Same is the case with my life. And especially my student life which I have enjoyed a lot like everyone and so as able to remember many nice moments.

Of them, I am sharing one of my experience as a story.

When, I was in 5th grade, my performance in mathematics was not up to the mark. Dad lived in Patna and me, my sister and my mom shifted to my hometown. Mom was unable to pay attention to my studies as my sister was too young to be handled by anyone else

And then one day my dad called me and introduced me to my tuition teacher.

He is a very talented and dedicated man. He taught me for hours and made sure that I don't have any doubt in today's topic.

But this very good teacher was very good at punishing me also. He threw my note books in anger whenever I acted dumb.

Event Name: Article Writing :My Dream Teacher:

Total 26 students participated in the article writing competition. The topic was given as: My Dream Teacher.

Short story Writing

In 1993, I was a student in St. Xavier's high school, Anand. It was the last day of my summer vacation after I passed my 10th boards. Usually I am always excited to learn something new at school but this time it wasn't the same. I was tensed and the reason behind it was that my mother was the only working hand, and the only money she earned by sewing clothes, and that was the only reason to pay my school fees. But, this time it wasn't enough to pay fees. I worried me went to school. We were asked to select our stream for 11th and pay fees there. I told everything to the principal, I even begged and begged there that I am unable to pay my fees for science stream. I begged if he could relieve me in fees he got angry and yelled "we don't give education on discount." I ran back to home tears all over my face. Some days past my friends came to my house and told me that principal had been calling me. I was not in a state where I could handle much pain anymore, still I made up my mind and went there.

As soon as I got to know what was the matter I started sobbing. It was that principal the clerk told me that my fees were paid by and to meet the principal I entered principal's office crying and I asked him who was that messiah who paid my fees. He told I was my maths teacher. The principal told me that "you're lucky that he saw you running out of my office that day with tears all over your face." and the other fact
